

TYPHOON RENDERS WORK IMPOSSIBLE

Raging on Manila Bay For Three Days.

STORM WILL BE FOLLOWED BY LAND OPERATIONS.

Gen. Corbin Expressed the Opinion That Fighting Will Be Renewed Along the South Shore of Laguna de Bay, Where the Troops Were Interrupted Last Week After the Capture of Los Banos—Transport Pennsylvania Leaves For Iloilo, Cebu and Jolo—Minnesota and Dakota Regiments Return the Eleventh.

Washington, Aug. 8.—[Special]—The following was received from General Otis this morning:

"The three days' typhoon rendered work on the bay impossible. The transport Pennsylvania leaves for Iloilo, Cebu and Jolo, this evening, and the Sherman, with discharged men and the Minnesota and South Dakota regiments, leave for San Francisco the 11th inst. In General Corbin's opinion, the end of the storm will be followed promptly by land operations along the south shore of Laguna de Bay, where they were interrupted last week after the capture of Los Banos. OTIS."

An Appeal For Independence.

Manila, Aug. 8.—[Special]—The foreign consuls in Manila have received copies of an appeal to the powers for the recognition of the Filipino independence, issued by Aguinaldo at Tarlac.

The consuls are requested to forward the documents to their respective governments.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 8.—Gen. Lloyd Wheaton believes that the Philippine war will come to a speedy termination in the winter when the rainy season closes, provided the government shall have a well-equipped army at hand at that time.

A private letter from Manila gives the following authorized interview with Gen. Wheaton:

"A little energy on the part of the army in the fall and winter will soon close the campaign. The Filipinos can be driven off the island if necessary, if the government sends us the men it promises. The war will end at the close of the rainy season."

"American regulars and volunteers deserve all the praise that has been heaped upon them. Even the rawest recruits that have been sent here have, after their first engagement, showed splendid courage. The older commands of regulars have done all that could be asked of men. The volunteers are invaluable."

"Whenever new forces are received and given a good idea of the movements of the enemy and their methods of fighting, the end of the rebellion will be near at hand."

REGIMENTS ARE NEARLY FILLED.

New More Men Needed to Complete the Volunteer Organizations.

Washington, Aug. 8.—Only 2,768 more men are needed to fill the ten volunteer regiments now being organized. A total of 10,332 men have been enlisted. Saturday's recruiting resulted in 515 enlistments, and it is expected that an average of nearly 500 men will be made each day.

A statement prepared by the war department shows that by Oct. 22 there will be in the Philippines or on their way to Manila 46,000 men. The last transport is scheduled to leave San Francisco on Oct. 22. Allowing thirty days for the trip, on Nov. 22 Gen. Otis will have 46,000 troops. He will not wait for all this force before putting into operation his plan of campaign. By the middle of October he will have nearly 40,000 men. If the rainy season has ended by that time, he will begin. The war department now makes no secret of its plan of campaign. Major-General, Lawton and MacArthur will probably be in command of the departments in Luzon, where the insurrection is, and Brig-Gen. Wheaton and Bates or Wheeler will be placed in command of the other departments. The generals in command will be held responsible for order in their departments.

The majority of the troops will be kept in the island of Luzon to put down the rebellion of Aguinaldo. When that rebellion is ended the troops will garrison the most dangerous points to see that the insurgent element does not again attempt to intimidate the people.

Need Not Wait Regiments.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 8.—Most of the 234 men who came from Manila on the hospital ship Relief have been chafing under the order which kept them here to await the home-coming of their regiments, with which they were to have been mustered out. Many of them are convalescent and anxious to be about their civilian work again. Gen. Shafter asked for permission to discharge all the men, and a telegram received grants the request. Men will not be discharged, however, unless able to travel and take care of themselves. Every effort will be made to prevent men who have not recovered their health from getting away, perhaps to wander about and become public charges.

Oregonians Mustered Out.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 8.—The Second Oregon regiment was mustered out of the service Monday. The regiment will remain in camp until 1:30 this afternoon. Then the men will proceed by trains for home.

May Recall Brooke from Cuba.

Washington, Aug. 8.—Strong pressure is now being brought upon the authorities here to advance the establishment of a civil government in Cuba. So far as the official records are concerned, it is not apparent that Gen. Brooke has done anything to comply with the promise announced by congress when war with Spain was declared. He seems to have made no progress toward the withdrawal of the military government, although army officers and other officials who have returned from the island agree that conditions are ripe for self-government there. Gen. Brooke's recall has therefore been suggested.

The Haytian government is taking precautions to prevent Jimenez from landing on its territory.

Gastro Catarrh Kills Dogs.

So many dogs in Germany have been seized with the same fatal illness within the last year that at first the mortality was believed to be due to malicious poisoning, but it was soon discovered to be a malignant epidemic. From the observations of Herr Kurtz, veterinary surgeon at Stuttgart, it appears that the epidemic is an infectious disease of the nature of gastro catarrh, with bleeding from the mucous membrane of the mouth. At Stuttgart at first 70 per cent of the cases ended fatally, which number afterward fell to 40 per cent. Though the epidemic is nearly over, the cause of the disease is unknown. Animals which have once had the complaint and recovered seem to acquire immunity.

Loftiest Weathercock.

The loftiest weathercock in the world is to be found on the summit of a tower 370 feet in height, rising above the Hotel de Ville in Brussels, which is generally accounted to be the most beautiful building in Belgium and some say in northern Europe. This is a gilded copper figure of the archangel Michael which was executed by Martin Van Rode in 1451. Although in consequence of the height of the spire on which it is mounted, this figure looks much smaller than it really is, it is sixteen feet high, and, being of solid metal and hung on a pivot turning with the wind, it is both the largest and heaviest weathercock in the world.

From the Clickers.

Washington Special, Chicago Journal: Fourteen stenographers are busy every day at the white house answering the immense mail that comes to the president. Mr. McKinley does none of the dictating himself, save in very rare instances. The bulk of this work falls upon Acting Secretary Cortelyou, who in case of an emergency has assistants upon whom he is at liberty to call. There are days when the mail is so heavy that the acting secretary and his two assistants are unable to keep abreast of the work.

Revolving Toothbrush.

A revolving toothbrush has been invented by a West India lady. The brush portion is circular; it is attached to a handle that is spirally grooved and slides in a frame. By pressing the end of this handle, which projects beyond the frame, the brush revolves; on discontinuing the pressure the handle springs back to its normal position, causing a further revolution of the brush, and so the movement is maintained.

Great Stamp Collection.

Philatelists will be interested to learn that the great Tapping collection of postage stamps in the British Museum is now nearly all arranged in systematic order, and will soon be available for purposes of comparison and study. E. D. Bacon, who has been engaged in the work for the last four years, has carefully annotated every issue with the name of the printer and designer, and the date of issue. The collection is preserved in a very strong iron chest in one of the rooms of the National Library, but when its arrangement is finished it is probable that some device may be adopted so that those who wish to consult it can do so without having access to the stamps. Several suggestions to this end have been made, and experiments are being tried with a view to adopting the most satisfactory method of giving the public the required facilities, while protecting the stamps from being handled and the deteriorating effect of light.—Birmingham (England) Post.

Seems More Natural.

FORECAST OF WEATHER

Chicago, Aug. 8.—[Special]—Forecast for Wisconsin: Showers, possible thunderstorms to night and Wednesday.

Fatigue from Mental Work.

Dr. Edward Thorndike of the Western Reserve university has made some interesting experiments on mental fatigue. We are used to think of the mind as a machine, and our inability to work as a sign of its loss of energy. Sleep is supposed to restore the energy, as an accumulator is recharged with electricity. The incorrectness of this view might be questioned by the fact that mental action is the complex for such simplicity, and that some minds do not tire with large amounts of work. Dr. Thorndike's experiments show that certain persons are as fit for hard mental work after a day of it as in the morning, and seem to have no analogy with a charged accumulator.

Salt in Bodies of Water.

According to the latest survey, the Great Salt Lake is about 100 miles long, with an average width of from twenty-five to thirty miles, though in some places its width is from fifty to sixty miles, and the greatest depth is found to be some sixty feet. Its waters contain nearly 18 per cent solid matter, mostly salt and soda, with small proportions of sulphur, lithia and boric acid. It is a well-known fact that Atlantic ocean water holds but 3.5 per cent of solid material, of which salt constitutes 2.6 per cent. In the Asiatic Dead sea the water contains 23 per cent of solids, including less salt and soda and much more magnesia, calcium and potassium than Salt Lake.

New Era in the South.

The course of the Old South was that the population had no diversification of pursuits, and the welfare of all was dependent upon the industry of cotton-growing. The new plan of working up the raw material on the spot provides employment at all seasons and at higher wages, educates the people to new ways of life, increases the aggregate production of wealth and promises to effect great social reforms.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Convict on Prison Life.

A convict in the Kansas state prison has written a book on prison life. He urges the granting of permission to smoke and the abolition of the lockstep, and says: "Without doubt there are men here who are where they should be; there may be some who should have been born here. On the other hand, there are unquestionably some men here who will make good citizens some day. The writer believes that the average convict leaves the prison a better man than he was when he entered there."

An Extraordinary Family.

From the Kansas City Journal: Perhaps the most extraordinary family in the world is one now living at Arkansas City. The mother has been married five times, and for each husband she has had a child. The five children are living with her and each bears the name of its father.

Wood Tar.

It is curious to note that wood tar is prepared just as it was in the fourth century B. C. A bank is chosen and a hole dug, into which the wood is placed, covered with turf. A fire is lighted underneath and the tar slowly drips into the barrels placed to receive it.

The Egyptian government has agreed to undertake a survey of the Nile, with the object of enumerating the species of fish inhabiting its waters.

SECOND DAY OF DREYFUS TRIAL

Opened This Morning Behind Closed Doors.

PURPOSE WAS OF EXAMINING THE SECRET DOSSIER.

The Reason For the Court's Secrecy is That Parts of It Involve Germany and Other Foreign Powers—Collection of Documents Fills a Large Clothes Basket and Weighs Five Hundred Pounds—Prisoner Appeared Worried, Harassed and Uncertain of Acquittal—Protests Innocence When Incriminating Papers Were Brought Up.

Rennes, Aug. 8.—[Special]—The Dreyfus court martial opened this morning behind closed doors for the purpose of examining the secret dossier. This is a collection of documents, which fills a large clothes basket and weighs 500 pounds. The session ended at noon. A crowd of 400 were waiting to see Capt. Dreyfus as he came out of the great hall of the Lysee. The troops cleared those away, but there were no protests and demonstrations, the crowd seemingly being animated merely by idle curiosity. The prisoner appeared still worried, harassed and uncertain of acquittal. Four guards escorted him to and from the Lysee, an and officer and armed guard kept watch over him all night. Dreyfus Present at Session.

Dreyfus was present at the session with both his lawyers. The accused was questioned about the dossier, piece by piece and protested his innocence when the incriminating documents were brought up.

The reason for the court's secrecy in examining the dossier is that parts of it involve Germany and other foreign powers. The prosecution lies largely upon the dossier. Ex-Minister of War Chanoine, who brought some further documents, was the only witness present. He stated that Gen. Mercier bases his conviction of Dreyfus' guilt on an unpublished letter from a foreign diplomat, which contains the full name of Dreyfus.

RUSSIAN CUSTOM.

Of Placing an Inscribed Silver Plate on Her Warships.

A Russian custom, which has prevailed since the earliest days of her naval power, of firmly riveting to some part of a new warship a silver plate bearing inscriptions and with a facsimile of the craft engraved in the center, is to be carried out at the Cramps Shipyard next week on one of the new battleships building there for the Russian navy. The plate is always placed on some part of the vessel, generally below the water line, where it is little liable to injury, and where it is expected to remain as long as the ship is in service. Those built abroad for Russia's navy are not excepted, although the same elaborate ceremonies, such as prevail in a home shipyard, are not observed. There the placing of the plate is attended with much ceremony, a priest being present to conduct religious exercises, and a detachment of sailors to fire a salute. Other plates similar to the one fastened to the ship are made, and one is presented to the emperor, another to the empress, and others to members of the admiralty board, high ranking naval officials and other dignitaries.

Cramp, who is now building a battleship and armored cruiser for Russia, has arranged for an observance of the custom some time next week, when he will put near the magazine of the battleship a silver plate, suitably inscribed with the name of the ship and the date of her launching, and bearing a beautiful engraving of the craft as she will appear when in commission. Twenty additional plates have been made for presentation to the royal family and the leading Russian naval officials. The same practice will be followed shortly in both instances the religious exercises will be omitted.

Whale in Shrimp Net.

A small bottle-nosed whale, eleven feet long and six feet in circumference, has been captured off the Essex coast, and is now to be seen on the beach at Southend. It was surprised near the shore by some local fishermen, who managed to take it by tugging it up in an old shrimp net. Its vitality was so great that it lived for fifty hours after capture. The idea of tackling a ton of lively whale with a shrimp net does not in the least impress its captors, who, says our correspondent, "would go for a sea serpent with a half-inch rope."

Ingenuous Machine.

Experiments have been going on with an ingenious machine which shuts over a man's eyes so that the eyelids as it works opens and closes a chronograph. So far the quickest wink on record is about a sixth of a second.

VILLAGE OF CLINTON NOW IN DARKNESS

ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANT SHUTS DOWN FOR THE PRESENT.

Result of Financial Difficulties Which May be Adjusted—Daughter of Iver Johnson, Who Was Bitten by What Was Thought a Kissing Bug, Is Improving—Personal News.

Clinton, Aug. 8.—The electric light plant has shut down for the present and the city is in darkness. The suspension is the result of financial difficulties, which we trust may be speedily adjusted. The Ayer Bros. have given the best service the village has had since the plant was put in. They are gentlemen who understand their business and a little encouragement of the right kind just now would be timely, and of much benefit to the town. Iver Jacobson's little girl, who was bitten a week ago by what is thought to have been a kissing bug, is pronounced out of danger by Dr. Covert, the physician in attendance. Her lip was greatly enlarged and the swelling extended to other parts of her face and body. At the time of the accident, while out of door the child felt a sting on her lip, and her sister immediately brushed away what appeared to be a black insect. The water tank on the hill received a fresh coat of paint the past week. E. C. Ransom, of Bradford, met with quite a serious accident by running the point of a pair of sheep shears into his knee, causing a severe hemorrhage. It was with great difficulty that the flow of blood was checked. The unfortunate man became greatly exhausted and was on the verge of fainting when an application of cob webs produced the desired result. Dr. Montgomery was called to treat the patient. Charles Doubleday, another Bradford farmer while shocking up barley last week cut the back of his hand with the straw and is having a serious time with the injured member, blood poisoning having set in. Dr. Betzer is treating the wound. George Lewis, wife and daughter, of Sycamore, Ill., arrived Saturday evening to spend Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. Collier. Mr. Lewis and family travel in a house built on wheels. They spend a month or two each summer in this way visiting the lakes where they use their house as a cottage. The vehicle is a unique one and built by a carriage company according to Mr. Lewis' plans. It is about 18 feet long, 5 1/2 feet wide and high enough for a tall man to stand inside. There is a kitchen sitting room and bedroom with windows in each. A gasoline stove is used to cook meals, beside of which a pump furnished hard or soft water. The floor is carpeted and pictures adorn the walls. It is cozy and homelike and the entire rig, trucks and all weigh about 1900 pounds. A span of bay horses haul it at the rate of six miles per hour. L. L. Olds has purchased three lots of James Irish just west of the feed mill on which to erect his seed warehouse. The Northwestern road will erect a side track to the building. The company has decided not to remove the stock yards at present. The Smith-Tector house was sold at auction, Saturday. Dr. Collier was the purchaser. A Kenosha firm is talking of leasing the electric light plant, in case other arrangements are not made, and provided the citizens will put up $1,500 to cover the cost of moving. They would manufacture, in connection with operating the lighting system. Rev. Roeber's church was largely attended, Sunday afternoon, the occasion being the annual missionary festival. Ministers from Burlington and Milwaukee were present, and delivered sermons. The Woman's Missionary union will hold a meeting at Solon Cooper's, Friday afternoon. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock, to which all are invited. E. J. Wakeford is at Sharon this week, where he will put in five dwelling house furnaces. Mrs. H. N. Crookrite will leave about September 1, for a trip to New Jersey, where she will spend several weeks with relatives. Mrs. Smith and daughter Elsie of California, sister-in-law and niece of Miss Anne Smith, are here for a visit. Fred Euders of Cedar Rapids, Ia., is spending a few weeks at Charles Lee's. Harry Napper has gone to Vermont, to visit his old home. Clarence Smith is taking a vacation at Racine. W. W. Swingle and wife, of Shopiere, came up to services Sunday. It is needless to say that the ice cream social for the little folks of the Congregational Sunday school at C. S. Johnson's last Friday, was well attended. Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Bean, of Binghamton, N. Y., relatives of Mrs. Mory Weaver, are expected to arrive Thursday. Harry Griswold intends to quit farming this fall and join the force at Eclipse works, Beloit. Miss Calista Barrus, sister of George Barrus, is here on a visit. Fred Weaver, Clayton Stoney and their ladies drove out to the lake, Sunday. V. E.

Mrs. Emma Curtis-Bell and daughter, were here last week.

Elder Ellingwood, of Iowa, spent Sunday in this place. He is a former resident. George Dean left for Montana, Sunday night. He will bring back a carload of western horses. There was not much threshing done the past week, owing to the wet weather. Ray Brown, who has been sick the past week, is not much improved. The material sufficient to build a church 30x40 feet, has been donated, besides over $300 in cash. This with the labor proffered, will build a fine little edifice."

INJURED BY RUNAWAY HORSE

Michael Mooney Found Unconscious By the Road Side.

Michael Mooney, the seven-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mooney, who reside six miles west of the city on the Footville road, met with a painful accident last evening. The boy's mother sent him on an errand, but gave him explicit orders not to go horseback, but boylike the orders were disobeyed and a saddle was thrown onto a horse that had never been ridden. The lad went into a grocery store about half a mile distant. All went well until he was returning, when the horse became frightened at some obstacle along the roadside and ran away. In falling, the boy's foot caught in the stirrup and he was dragged for quite a distance. Some time later he was found by the roadside in an unconscious condition. He was taken to his home, and Dr. James Mills, of this city, was summoned. The boys right arm and the right side of his face were badly lacerated. Dr. Mills made the little sufferer as comfortable as possible, but his injuries were of such a nature that he will be laid up for some time.

REPORT A PLEASANT VOYAGE

Word Received From W. W. Watt and Joseph A. Van Kirk.

Letters received from W. W. Watt and Joseph A. Van Kirk, who are now in Europe, convey the information that they changed their plans and instead of stopping first in London they went from Southampton to Paris and will visit the English capitol on the return trip. They report a pleasant voyage over and say that ocean waves were not large enough to cause the steamer to roll a particle. They will not visit other European points of interest but will spend their entire time in Paris and London.

GEO. WISE ERECTS BUILDING

Making Extensive Changes In His Property At First Lake.

George W. Wise, of this city, is making extensive changes at his property at First Lake. The Stoughton Courier says: George W. Wise is erecting another cottage on his lot at Kegonsa. The building and surroundings will be odd and most unique. The building will represent the "little log cabin" surrounded by the ancient rail fence. Water will be drawn from the family well by means of a sweep attached to the "old oaken bucket." Everything will be as ancient as the active brain of the little Englishman can conceive.

build the house around the bath room.

SO SOME PEOPLE say. The modern idea in building is to have the bath room and plumbing convenient and nice, if you are obliged to cut off on something else.

That Double System of Plumbing.....

we are putting in many houses, is a convenience well worth looking into. It can be placed in any house. With it you have soft water for the bath and lavatory purposes and with the turning of a valve you can run city water through the pipes. A motor elevates the soft water automatically. We would be pleased to explain it more fully to you.

PROFESSIONAL WOMAN'S LEAGUE.

A Worthy Organization and the Noble Woman Who Founded It.

By OLIVE HARPER

Mrs. A. M. Palmer has been so closely identified with the Professional Woman's League, as founder and president, that her name is a household word everywhere. Few people, even those who have heard of "the P. W. L.," as its members lovingly call the league, know how far-reaching and how useful a society it is. It is at once a proof that a club can exist and be at one and the same time a means of pleasant intercourse among women whose tastes and occupations make them congenial companions.

Of its substantial benefit to those in need of a helping hand it is not necessary to speak in detail. Only a few words may be said about the most useful library of all sorts of books valuable to members of the theatrical profession. This is open to all members, and affords them a choice of needed works scarcely to be found elsewhere. The wardrobe is a wonder in its way. All sorts of garments, wigs, jewels and costume shoes are there, most of them donated by different actors and actresses. Many of them possess historic value, as well as practical usefulness.

There are also many curious things—relics of persons and things pertaining to the profession. A fine array of costumes of every description is also provided for the use of such members as may require them and who perhaps are not able to buy.

There are many ways in which a helping hand is held out to members. Lessons in languages, dancing, fencing, etc., are all provided at a cost impossible to the learner under other circumstances. Besides, there is always the handsome clubhouse, with its homelike feeling of calm and repose as soon as the doors close upon the noisy street.

This club has as its aims "to bring together women engaged in dramatic, musical, literary, artistic and scientific pursuits, with the view of rendering them mutually helpful; to minister to the financial needs of members; to provide instruction in the various branches made necessary by the requirements of each member's chosen profession, at the lowest possible rate, and to arrange and conduct a department to provide members with such outfit as is necessary for the obtaining of employment."

Aside from these are many private acts of kindness not provided for in the laws, but all the same they are performed in a way to help the needy one without destroying her self respect by charity.

There is no part of this excellent work that does not run smoothly and form a component part of the whole complicated machinery. To Mrs. A. M. Palmer is due the credit of this most excellent organization. She devised it, planned it, and with energy and a keen knowledge of women and their needs carried it forward to perfection.

There has been no begging for it other than a couple of bazaars, where everybody had his or her quid pro quo. There are no debts and a very comfortable sum in the savings banks. During all these years Mrs. Palmer has been president. She now declares that she will not run for another term. She needs rest, and, besides that, she has branched out in a new role, that of theatrical manager.

This role has taught her several new things. One is that it is easy to get into lawsuits and that they are costly. Mrs. Palmer has always been particularly renowned for her love and appreciation of other women. Her heart is as tender as it is big. Every one who knows her is charmed by the frank sincerity of her speech and the loving kindness in her eyes. She may be truly called "the friend of women," not of one woman, but of all.

There was recently conferred upon her the grand medal and international order of Les Sanveteurs of France for her devotion to the cause of humanity and the succor of those in need. The order in question is of gold and enamel, and has a ribbon and rosette, also buttons, as insignia to wear upon the lapel of her coat. The grand medal is only to wear at great functions and special occasions. Every one who knows Mrs. Palmer and many who have never met the genial, brainy founder and president of the P. W. L., feel that she has deserved this recognition.

THE BASEBALL REPORT.

Results of Games Played Yesterday in the National League.

Chicago begins today a series of eleven games in the east. While St. Louis and Chicago are playing the southern end of the eastern circuit, Ewing's Reds are encountering the leaders, Boston and Brooklyn. Yesterday's games brought these two rivals closer together, and Hanlon's fears for the strength of his team are apparently well grounded. Boston is slowly and surely cutting down what was once a long lead, just as many critics have long prophesied would be the case. Philadelphia, recovering its slump, is well up, and the situation is quite interesting. Yesterday's games:

Washington, Aug. 8.—The state department received a dispatch from San Francisco Monday announcing the arrival of the German and American members of the Samson commission at that port. It is expected that the commissioners will come directly to Washington, for the purpose of delivering their report and the draft of the proposed treaty, which is to be submitted to the tripartite powers. Buggy Tastes are Changing

The monotonous style of vehicle of a few years ago does not find place with the up-to-date buyer of today.

The demand for rigs of natty appearance increases each season. This year the swell turnouts combine comfort with style. The open runabout buggy with elliptic springs and rubber tires, or the top buggies with rubber tires, have a tendency to make the person who has no outfit a trifle envious. Handsome Buggies do not cost as much as you think for. Prices are reasonable and the rigs are the best.

- 1502—Pope Alexander VI (Rodrigo Borgia, the infamous) died of poison prepared for some cardinals, but given to him by mistake; born 1431; elected 1502.
- 1812—John Rodgers, admiral and son of the more famous John, born in Hartford county, Md.; died 1852.
- 1883—General Gouverneur K. Warren, veteran corps commander of the Army of the Potomac, died in Newport, R. I.; born 1833. General Warren distinguished himself at Little Round Top, Gettysburg, and later as commander of the Fifth Army corps. At the time of the assault made by his troops upon Lee's entrenched position at Spotsylvania in 1863, Warren marched bravely in front of the host, repulsed in a new uniform. He was the idol of his men.

- 1898—George Maurice Ebers, noted Egyptologist and novelist, died at Munich; born 1837. Brigadier General John S. Poland, civil war veteran and one of the new generals in the Spanish war, died at Asheville, N. C.; born 1836. Adolf Friedrich Heinrich Sutor, mining engineer and capitalist of Sutor tunnel fame, died in San Francisco; born in Germany in 1839.

WHY OTIS WAS SENT.
Chicago Inter-Ocean—W. R. Hearst, who declares himself a democratic expansionist, has published in the San Francisco Examiner what he calls an open letter to the president. The main object of this letter is to secure the removal of General Otis and the transfer to the Philippines some general who is a presidential possibility. Such a man in Manila, Mr. Hearst believes, would make McKinley a presidential certainty. All this is preliminary to the statement that the president sent Otis to Manila because he is too weak to be a presidential possibility.

It will be seen that Mr. Hearst would bring all military and naval operations down to the level of a political campaign. He fails utterly to comprehend that the president has had the interests of the country in mind. He shows his ignorance of the history of the war and of military usage, just as do most of those clamoring for the removal of General Otis. Now, what are the facts?

When Admiral Dewey asked for troops to assist in the capture of Manila the command of the department was assigned to the major general in the regular army ranking next to General Miles. When the assignment of General Merritt to the Philippines was announced there was general satisfaction. No one thought of politics, but there was a feeling in the army, that, with the great opportunity before him, Merritt might come back a lieutenant general. But certainly no one accused the president of sending to the Philippines "a man too weak to be a presidential possibility."

General Merritt was not satisfied with the appointment, and, desiring to return to this country, after the surrender of Manila, he was transferred to Paris and then to the command of the department of his own selection in this country. At that time there were three major generals and five brigadier generals in the regular army. Of the major generals, Miles was in command of the army, Brooke was governor general of Cuba, and Merritt commander-in-chief in the Philippines. Miles did not care to succeed Merritt. Brooke preferred command in Cuba. The available brigadiers were, in order of rank, Otis, Shafter, Wade, Merriam, and Henry.

Otis, ranking next to Major-General Brooke, was assigned to command in the Philippines because he was the senior officer. He had served through the civil war in the army of the Potomac, winning promotion at Gettysburg, Spotsylvania, and at Chapel Hill. He entered the regular service in 1866 as lieutenant colonel of the Twenty-Second infantry, or about the same time that Miles entered the regular service as colonel of the Fortieth infantry and Brooke as lieutenant colonel of the Thirty-seventh infantry and Shafter as lieutenant colonel of the Forty-first infantry. Otis became colonel of the Twentieth infantry in 1880 and Brigadier General in 1893.

No officer in the service had a better reputation for hard fighting than Otis, and few on the frontier had had more experience in administrative work. He was not a weakling when, at the battle of the Wilderness, his regiment, in advance of the Fifth corps, lost 255 men, eleven commissioned officers, and all of its non-commissioned staff, but held its ground. He was not a weakling when, in command of the regular brigade, he was shot at Chapel Hill. He was not a weakling through all his service against the Indians, and was not so regarded when he inaugurated the campaign against the Filipino insurgents.

Those who sneer at Otis as only a regiment commander previous to the war with Spain, forget that the sneer applies with greater force to General Anderson, who at the beginning of the war with Spain, was colonel of the Fourteenth infantry; to General Lawton, who was a lieutenant colonel in the inspector general's department, or to General MacArthur, who was lieutenant colonel in the adjutant general's department. In the regular army as now organized Miles stands first, Merritt second, Brooke third, Otis fourth and Shafter fifth. Otis went to the Philippines because of his rank and his experience as a soldier. He is one of the best lawyers in the army, and while not a showy man, is one of the best administrative officers. His campaigns speak for themselves, and the Rev. Edward Abbott, a brother to Dr. Lyman Abbott, after a trip to Manila and the front, said: "There is only one opinion as to the excellence of the military administration of the Philippines."

QUEEN OF CLUBWOMEN.

New President of the International Congress.

Mrs. May Wright Sewall, who was recently elected to succeed the Countess of Aberdeen as president of the international congress of women, is probably more actively connected with woman's organizations than any other woman in the world. She went to London as vice president of the international congress and president of the National council. She is also chairman of the American branch of the international woman's peace commission, and she has been the recipient of many other similar honors.

Mrs. Sewall is pretty well up the ladder of fame as a leader of women along higher educational lines, in the field of literature and in clubdom. She is a native of Wisconsin, but comes of New England parentage. She has been a teacher most of her life and is today at the head of a large "classical school for girls" in Indianapolis, where she has a beautiful home, enriched with art treasures gathered in her many trips abroad.

She is interested, first of all, in the advancement and higher education of women. She was the organizer and is yet president of many of the largest women's clubs in Indianapolis, which is noted for its highly cultured women.

MRS. MAY WRIGHT SEWALL.
She is a warm advocate of the political rights of women and has been for years prominent in the work of the Indiana and the national equal suffrage societies.

Mrs. Sewall is either president or chairman of six large organizations of women in Indiana, member of the Association for the Advancement of Women, member of the American Historical association, member of Sorosis, honorary member of the Union Internationale des Sciences et des Arts, Paris, and director of the University club. She is an active member of half a dozen smaller organizations, each and all of them for the betterment of the lot of women.

NEW OILFIELD.

Rich Strike in the Mountains of Northern Pennsylvania—Curious Phases of a Fascinating Industry.

After a quiet sleep of more than 75 years the little village of Gaines, charmingly nestled among the beautiful mountains of Tioga county, Pa., near the New York boundary line, awoke a short time ago to find itself the center of excitement. Oil wells had been discovered, and the promise of rich oilfields seemed likely to throw the little village on its beam ends, so

SCENE AT GAINES.

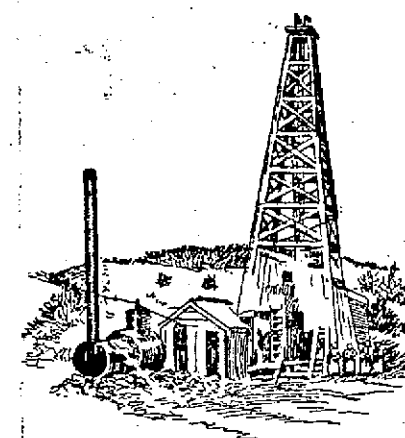

Here was the tremendous boom and so rich in promise was the hitherto undiscovered treasure of this bit of woodland. It was no time at all until the noise of the steam whistle, the thrifty, rasping sounds of the derrick walking beam and the steady crunching of great drills pounding away for hundreds of feet toward the center of the earth were driving the frightened rabbits, squirrels and rattlesnakes scurrying to the dense thickets of pink blossomed laurel and thick underbrush far up the sides of the mountain.

Oil fever in all of its most fascinating phases had broken out in the little community, and even the gold fever, with all of its exciting symptoms, is not more contagious. There were no danger flags of this new epidemic placed upon the houses where the new fever made its home, but to the most casual observer it was very plain to be seen that scarcely a family had escaped.

There are many advantages claimed for these new wells by the operators and recognized by the great companies and corporations which buy the crude material for refining. In the first place, the oil is exceptionally pure, making it what is known as a premium oil, for which a much higher price is paid than for the product of the average oilfields. In fact, the product of the oil wells of Gaines is acknowledged to be the second best in the country. Then, too, the flow is one that pays tremendous dividends. It is admitted that an oil well producing five barrels of oil per day is a paying piece of property and a good paying one. Some of the new wells are producing 60 and 70 barrels daily, and very few average less than 15 to 20 barrels. The value of this new property as yet can hardly be estimated, but every well gives the most practical assurances of being a mine of wealth for years and years to come.

It was midnight when I was first introduced to the newly discovered treasure producers of Gaines, says a correspondent of the New York Herald. The picture was one of dancing lights from the great flaming jets of natural gas and darkest shadows, accentuated by the flaring flickers of nature's marvelous lamp. Through the little valley where runs the priceless vein of oil stood the great derricks, rising over 70 feet in the air, the skeletons of their great frameworks standing like mighty monitors sharply silhouetted against the star studded sky.

At derrick No. 7 two men are drilling. Here all is activity, and there is scarcely a minute during the 12 hours on duty that these men are not constantly at work. It is impossible to give more than a general idea of the working of these great drills. Several yards back of the derrick is a stationary engine, with natural gas for fuel. This supplies the power used in running the rough, heavy machinery, which steadily grinds, smashes and drives an open passageway to the oil below.

In the first place, 8 inch casings of heavy iron are driven 40 feet, far into the bed of rock. Then from 300 to 400 feet of iron tubing is sunk in the shaft into this shaft a great steel plunger weighing hundreds and hundreds of pounds hammers away at the rock and sand. To this great plunger or hammer is attached a bit 6 inches in diameter and weighing more than 300 pounds. This long plunger is attached to a heavy manila rope about 2 1/2 inches in diameter. This rope is in turn attached to a great windlass, which can be reeled out for hundreds of feet by means of brakes and controlled as easily as a fishing rod in the hands of an expert. When the proper amount of rope has been played out to allow the steel plunger with the tempered bit to pound away at the bottom of the hole, the rope is attached to a heavy walking beam, the same as that used on a ferryboat. As this walking beam goes up and down it raises and drops the steel plunger with such force that it goes grinding its way through sand, gravel or solid rock.

The driller is in constant danger. It was only a few days ago that one of the experienced men was caught in the rope which runs from the great windlass with lightning rapidity and crushing to death. Then there is danger that this windlass may, from the tremendous strain, be jerked straight through the framework of the derrick. This is one of the times that the driller must take to the woods at short notice and at record breaking speed.

"Shooting" an oil well is a branch of the business that tempts with excitement from start to finish. When the "shooter," or man who explodes the nitroglycerin, arrives he goes as calmly about his business as if he were a street sweeper, but he is carrying at least his own life in his hand, and generally all those within a considerable radius. This man drives up to the little shanty where some thousand quarts of nitroglycerin are stored, goes in and loads his wagon with this most terrific explosive and with it drives like Jehu to the well which is waiting to be shot.

Arriving at the well, careful measurements are taken, and then this nitro is poured into long tubes or shells from 4 to 7 feet in length. This loaded shell he lets down to the bottom of the shaft, and then others, the number depending upon the amount of explosives to be used. The lowering of this deadly stuff is the most dangerous part of the proceeding, for if it should explode—and it sometimes does—before it is hundreds of feet below the surface of the earth and previous to the proper time, the derrick will be blown into toothpicks and in all probability many persons killed. One thing sure, the "shooter" can have no chance for his life. On the top of the last shell are placed some gun caps, and then all is ready for the explosion.

The instrument used for exploding the caps is a triangular kind of flying wedge made of iron and weighing about 20 pounds. This instrument is called a "go devil," and it is called so with excellent reason. This "go devil" is dropped in the top of the shaft, and as soon as it is started on its mission the dropper takes to the woods.

For perhaps a minute—it seems like half an hour—after the "go devil" has started on its long chase down the shaft you can hear it, although it may be imagination, until finally the ground shakes under you. Then there is the noise of the exploding of the caps, and then a deep, muffled boom. This is in turn followed by a rasping noise, and the oil shaft seems to be choking. It is. In a few seconds this choking noise develops into a throbbing vibration, and then barrels and barrels of oil, clouds of sand, a "go devil" blown in to a thousand pieces and water go crashing through the mouth of the oil well, straight to the top of the derrick and perhaps a hundred feet above.

For some seconds it shoots in this way, rushing from the narrow confines of the iron tubing with a mighty roar, going higher and higher, until having reached its zenith it gradually sinks again, the bound and fettered slave of man.

LOCAL EVIDENCE.

One Line of Janesville Evidence is Worth a Column of Foreign Testimony.

Make a mental note of this. The endorser is well known in Janesville. His veracity is unquestioned. You are reading local evidence, investigating home testimony. Janesville news for Janesville people. Suspicion can't lurk around it. Honesty is its prominent characteristic.

Home endorsement its salient point. Mr. Thos. Pratt of 281 South Main St. says: "I doctored off and on for forty years, attempting to rid myself of backache, which came on by spells, very painful when at their height and even when somewhat allayed, the dull aching grinding was sure to manifest itself, if I overtaxed myself, caught cold or did any work which brought a strain on the muscles of the back. Often I have been so lame and sore that there were days I was confined to my room almost helpless, certainly unable to get up or down. Like a great many other people in Janesville I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at the Janesville Co's. drug store, led to do so by the peculiar advertisement which riveted my attention. After taking a thorough course of the remedy I was able to go to the quarry and sling an eighteen pound hammer without showing any signs of a recurrence. If I am subjected to future attacks I know what remedy to employ."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. sole agents for the U. S.: Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

LATE NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

SYMPATHIZE WITH STRIKERS. ACT MAY BE UNFRIENDLY.

Ohio Militiamen Cheer the Dissatisfied Cleveland Street-Car Men.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 8.—More persons rode on the cars of the Big Consolidated Street Car company Monday than on any day since the boycott was declared. Sympathy for the strikers has extended to the soldiers who are guarding the property of the street-car company, and when a company of the Fourth regiment lined up at the Miles avenue barns in Newburg the soldiers gave three cheers for the strikers. These were followed by three lusty groans for the non-union men.

The local Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers lodge sent a contribution of $100 and a letter to the strikers. In the letter the lodge said that the contribution was made because P. M. Arthur, chief of the brotherhood, had advanced himself in favor of the company and had ridden on the boycotted cars. The lodge by a unanimous vote censured the chief.

Gen. Axline said that all need of troops had ended, and he sent two more companies to their homes. The companies to leave were H and K of the Fourth regiment of Chillicothe and Delaware. The remaining companies will be gradually drawn in from the outposts to the central armory, so as to give the police an opportunity to become masters of the situation.

China Refuses to Allow Purchase of Cavalry Horses.

Washington, Aug. 8.—This government has been refused the privilege of purchasing horses in China for the use of its cavalry forces in the Philippines because it is held that animals purchased for such purposes are contraband of war. This action may have a far-reaching effect, as it is an indirect recognition of the belligerency of the Philippine insurgents.

Some time ago Gen. Otis was instructed to buy horses in China for the cavalry forces and soon afterwards he notified the department he could not obtain them because of the objection mentioned. It cannot be learned whether the objection was made by the Chinese government itself or whether the governors of the provinces interfered with the plans of this government, but the scheme was abandoned so far as relates to the celestial empire. Neither can it be learned whether the matter was brought officially before the state department, but it is believed the agent of Gen. Otis was simply notified that horses to be used for war purposes could not be purchased in China.

Labor Party Is Launched.

New York, Aug. 8.—In response to a call issued some time ago by the Central Federated union, 211 delegates, representing 105 labor organizations, met Monday night in Clarendon hall to consider the advisability of forming a permanent labor political party. The following officers were elected: Chairman, William J. O'Brien, president of the board of walking delegates; vice-chairman, T. M. Daly; secretary, Ernest Bohm; treasurer, Patrick McCarthy; sergeant-at-arms, Richard Cooney.

Trying to Restore Order.

Puerto Plata, Santo Domingo, Aug. 8.—Mr. Alvarez, the minister of finance, and Mr. Cordero, with 100 men, went to Monte-Christi Sunday. They united there with 700 men who had been assembled in behalf of the government for the restoration of order. Armed steamers are watching the coast to prevent the landing of an insurrectionary expedition should such a thing be attempted. The governor of Monte-Christi has 3,000 men under arms for the preservation of peace.

Republicans Gaining Strength.

Willing to Confer with Krueger.

Pretoria, Aug. 8.—The dispatch of the secretary of state for the colonies, Sir Joseph Chamberlain, besides proposing a joint commission of inquiry into the effect the Transvaal franchise reforms will have on the outlanders, adds that when this matter is settled the high commissioner will not be unwilling to confer with President Krueger on other questions, including arbitration, providing always that a foreigner is never permitted to act as arbitrator.

Three Oaks Getting Ready.

Three Oaks, Mich., Aug. 8.—Preparations are going on for the festivities which will mark the dedication of the Dewey cannon. An invitation will be extended to President McKinley, and an effort will be made through the Michigan representatives at Washington to have him stop in Three Oaks on his western trip in October, at which time the dedication will probably take place. Admiral Dewey is also expected.

Acetylene Gas Wrecks Plant.

Wabash, Ind., Aug. 8.—The experiment of the Logansport and Wabash Valley Gas company of employing acetylene for municipal lighting in this city ended disastrously last night, when the gas works were blown to pieces by the ignition of the gas. This was the first experiment ever made on a large scale with the new gas.

The city is without gas, and there will be none until new works are constructed.

Increase of Wages Refused.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 8.—The street-railway officials denied the request of conductors and motormen for an increase in wages from 21 cents to 25 cents an hour. The companies conceded all other points asked by the men, and it is believed improbable that the men will go farther than an attempt to arbitrate the question of increased pay.

Labor Troubles Adjusted.

Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 8.—At a conference between a committee representing the union machinists of the Grand Trunk locomotive shops and Master Mechanic Muhlfeld, the labor troubles which last week caused a walkout of all skilled machinists were amicably adjusted.

Citius Self-Defense.

Toledo, Ohio, Aug. 8.—Paul Zeltner, the Hertsville murderer, was on the witness stand in his own behalf Monday. He wept as he talked of his family, and his wife and children wept with him. He claimed that he acted in self-defense in the shooting of West-anhaven.

MOTORMAN UNDER ARREST.

Charged with Responsibility for the Bridgeport Disaster.

DEATH LIST REACHES THIRTY.

Twelve Seriously Injured — Car Was Running Too Fast on the Steep Grade — Public Opinion at Fever Heat — Twenty Dead at Bar Harbor.

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 8.—Motorman George Hamilton was arrested Monday on a warrant issued by Coroner Donlin and locked up to await the action of the coroner's jury. He was in charge of the trolley car of the Shelton Extension company which jumped the track and fell into Peck's mill pond at Oronoque, Sunday, by which thirty persons were killed and twelve seriously injured. Hamilton escaped without injury, and when taken into custody was simply suffering from the shock. He is accused of criminal carelessness in running the car too fast on the steep grade. Hamilton jumped from his post as the car fell, without reversing the power or applying the brakes. The condition of the wrecked car shows this to have been a fact. That Hamilton was once suspended for recklessly speeding a crowded car militates against him. Public opinion against him is at fever heat, for all consider him to blame for the frightful loss of life.

Hamilton was arraigned in the justice court, charged with manslaughter. He pleaded not guilty and the case was continued for one week. The prisoner's bail was fixed at $2,000, which he furnished.

Plain, Matter of Fact Business.

There has been no magic about our business during the past month. July is a dull month usually with most merchants. With us it turned out to be one of the best of the present year thus far. Why was it? Because we made it so. Tempting offers and dependable merchandise—goods that were all they were represented to be—and at easy buying prices.

In our crockery department

We are receiving new Dinnerware and Dinner Sets. They are pretty and worth giving special attention. Pretty table decorations are numerous, and each week finds some new addition to stock that varies the monotony and makes shopping a delight at our store. More of those Glass Tumblers and Jelly Glasses at 3 for 5c, are here.

Vase parlor lamps

A very fine assortment, with decorated globes and shades, at $5c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00. Any of them will add beauty to the parlor table.

Odd fancy china pieces

We are anxious to move this stock rapidly and are making prices on pretty pieces that should interest ladies. One can find most anything they wish in this stock.

From the fact that

Our shoe trade increases steadily

We believe that buyers appreciate the prices we are making on strongly made stylish footwear. Each month in this department finds a satisfactory advance in business. We know it would take time to build up a trade but it has come more rapidly than we looked for. The stock is so new and fresh and the sizes and styles so desirable that selling is made an easy matter. Complete lines of Shoes for men, women and children are here and the margin of profit asked is small.

DANCED BEFORE WATERLOO.

Lady Tighe, Who Was at the Famous Brussels Ball, Still Lives.

By Jeanette Devoe

There was a sound of revelry by night, And Belgium's capital had gathered then Her beauty and her chivalry, and bright The lamps shone o'er fair women and brave men; A thousand hearts beat happily, and when Music arose with its voluptuous swell Soft eyes looked love to eyes which spoke again, And all went merrily as a marriage bell; But hush! Hark! A deep sound strikes like a rising knell!

Probably the only living woman who danced at the famous Brussels ball and heard the "cannon's opening roar" which ushered in the battle of Waterloo and rudely disturbed the revelry is now living in County Kilkenny, Ireland. She is Lady Louisa Madeline Tighe. She is 96 years old now, but she remembers the scene as distinctly as if it had been yesterday and does not need to refer to Byron's lines to refresh her memory.

Lady Tighe was only 12 years old at the time of this tragically interrupted ball. Probably she would not have been there at all had it not been that it was her own father, the Duke of Richmond, who gave the ball. Thus it happened that, although only a schoolgirl, she was present. She danced, too, and with some of the very officers who, responding to "the war note of Lochiel," rushed out to meet death "where the thickest of war's tempest lowered." But while the ball lasted she was in a glow of excitement and tremendously interested in the brilliant affair.

Although not Irish, Lady Louisa has many ties that bind her to Ireland. Her father became lord lieutenant there so long ago as 1807, when the Duke of Wellington, then Arthur Wellesley, as chief secretary (1807-9) to her father, used to ride out with her and her sister in Phoenix park.

Lady Louisa (born, Lennox) is a daughter of the fourth Duke of Richmond and is one of three of his 12 children still alive, for all her brothers—seven valiant youths they were—have vanished, while but two of her sisters, now bearing the historic names of Pitt and Cecil, remain.

She was born in 1803 and thus has seen four sovereigns of the British throne. George III died when she was 17. Instead of being merely her king, he might have been her kinsman, for he had been madly in love with her great-aunt, Lady Sarah Lennox. She, however, would have none of him.

Early in 1815 Lady Louisa's father took his family to reside in Brussels, in the Rue de la Blanchisserie, and on

LADY LOUISA MADELINE TIGHE.

June 15 he gave the famous ball which has immortalized her and placed her in the position of being the only woman of modern times whose name is indissolubly connected with a British battle.

Two hundred guests were invited, including 50 ladies, and they assembled in the big room where Lady Louisa and her sister learned their lessons and played battledoor and shuttlecock. Lady Louisa, then a schoolgirl of 12, was present at that historic festival, which her kinsman, Lord Byron, has rendered doubly famous in "Child Harold." Her sister (her senior by eight years), the late Lady de Ros, who died in 1801, at the age of over 96, wrote a very interesting account of the ball ten years ago.

The story is too familiar to be retold. Two of Lady Louisa's brothers fought in the battle, while she and her sisters and their mother waited eagerly for the news of the victory and then nursed the sick and dying who were brought into Brussels.

In 1825 she married the Right Hon. William Frederick Forster Tighe of Woodstock. "One Who Has Kept a Diary" told us last year that her mother remarked of the match, "Poor Louisa is going to make a shocking marriage—a man called Tiggy, my dear—a saint and a radical." Mr. Tighe died in 1878, so that Lady Louisa has been one and twenty years a widow. One by one her brethren have slipped away, so that she almost alone remains from among those who were at the Brussels ball.

And still Lady Louisa lives in her quiet Irish home. She is a wonderful reminiscence—a relic of a past that has long since been merged into faraway history.
